

6th Foundation Day celebrated at the ICAR-NIBSM, Raipur

October 7th, 2017, Raipur

The 6th foundation day of the ICAR-National Institute of Biotic Stress Management (NIBSM) was celebrated. The main theme of this foundation day was agriculture based women empowerment. Dr. U.K. Mishra, Vice-Chancellor; Chhattisgarh Kamdhenu Vishwavidyalaya Durg was the chief guest of the function. Shri S.R. Verma, Director State agricultural management extension training institute (SAMETI) and Registrar IGKV, Raipur was the guest of honor. The celebrations began with the plantation of saplings to mark the New India movement Sankalp se Siddhi. This was followed by the main function in which Dr. Jagdish Kumar, Director (Acting) welcomed the esteemed guests, employees of NIBSM and also women farmers on this occasion. Dr. P. Kaushal, Joint Director (Research) highlighted the major achievements of institute during last one year. The function was attended by over 100 farmers including equal proportion of women farmers from nearby villages where extension activities of the institute is being carried out.

All the dignitaries visited the campus and appreciated the efforts of institute in addressing the problems of biotic stress in a comprehensive way.

On this occasion two institute's employees were awarded for their contributions in the best publication. Later the farmers-scientists interaction was held and problem with solution of women farmers addressed by the NIBSM scientists on the spot. The function ended with vote of thanks by Dr. Anil Dixit, Chairman Organizing committee of the Foundation Day.

Source: AKMU, ICAR-National Institute of Biotic Stress Management, Raipur